

JB> romdas@uclink.berkeley.edu (Ella I Baff) writes:

JB> Ron Roth recommends: "Once you have your hypoglycemia CONFIRMED through the JB> proper channels, you might consider the following:..."

JB> [diet omitted]

JB> 1) Ron...what do YOU consider to be "proper channels"...this sounds suspiciously

I'm glad it caught your eye. That's the purpose of this forum to educate those, eager to learn, about the facts of life. That phrase is used to bridle the frenzy of all the would-be respondents, who otherwise would feel being left out as the proper authorities to be consulted on that topic. In short, it means absolutely nothing.

JB> like a blood chemistry...glucose tolerance and the like...suddenly chemistry

JB> exists? You know perfectly well that this person can be saved needless trouble

JB> and expense with simple muscle testing and hair analysis to diagnose...no

JB> "CONFIRM" any aberrant physiology...but then again...maybe that's what you mean"

Muscle testing and hair analysis, eh? So what other fascinating space-age medical techniques do you use? Do you sit under a pyramid over night as well to shrink your brain back to normal after a mind-expanding day at your 'Save the Earth' clinic?

JB> 2) Were you able to understand Dick King's post that "90% of diseases is not thy JB> evaluate the statistic you cited from the New England Journal of Medicine. Coul?

Once I figure out what you are trying to say, I'll still have to wrestle with the possibility of you conceivably not being able to understand my answer to your question?!

JB> 3) Ron...have you ever thought about why you never post in misc.health.alterna-

JB> tive...and insist instead upon insinuating your untrained, non-medical, often JB> delusional notions of health and disease into this forum? I suspect from your

JB> apparent anger toward MDs and heteropathic medicine that there may be an

You little psychoanalytical rascal you! Got me all figured out, ja?

JB> underlying 'father problem'...of course I can CONFIRM this by surrogate muscle

JB> testing one of my patients while they ponder my theory to see if one of their

JB> previously weak 'indicator' muscles strengthens...or do you have reservations

JB> about my unique methods of diagnosis? [.....]

JB> John Badanes, DC, CA

JB> romdas@uclink.berkeley.edu

Oh man, when are you going to start teaching all this stuff? I'll bet everyone on this net must be absolutely dying to learn more about going beyond spinal adjustments and head straight for the mind for some Freudian sublaxation.

--Ron--

RoseReader 2.00 P003228: In the next world, you're on your own.

RoseMail 2.10 : Usenet: Rose Media - Hamilton (416) 575-5363